

in NSW for the moment. I am having problems with NSW health respecting my qualifications though as they constantly are injecting me with anti-psychotics but that course I have done automatically even after being awarded it defers to IT, Physics + Social if I am ever mentally ill in psychometry so I am slowly persuing medico-legal with drlucire.com → I believe your diagnosis is false as well and subject to the following passport, that was only for the first time in some many historical corridors of being back-here-again somehow in the metric of the internet being utilised your backside for a depo just purely for purposes of the health system and their ebay purchases and so on getting refunds and attempting to write in trys for gambling (TRY = Touchdown Region Y'all - flashes up on the NRL Scoreboard at spectator games), that is all that TLA is.

Whatelse, well I have stopped using all forms of Microsoft, I don't like the physicality as much as what I found a derivative of Debian linux called Ubuntu in it desktop variegate is like, it is pure bliss, I don't even allow microsoft to power up on my home environment anymore (you can get the ISO from <http://releases.ubuntu.com>) I really recommend you delete your windows laptop and load this on it, it is such a good performer and is self written that is her writes herself in AI's and so on so there is no programmer physicality in the run-time of it, it is absolutely bliss, an not only sounds better but is visually and just generally an ideal platform, at no cost and a hell of a lot more people power as well as quality of titles available for it is the most best thing I have ever done move away from close source to open source, general public licensed software, which is also what I am developing for xoops.org <wishcraft>.

I attempted to write Justin a couple of times, about releasing music on locked USB keys like similar too a crass distribution under creative commons licensing, and with a text file with discount codes for merchandise, which is the only way you make money in retail is not the medium in this instant art/music but your addon sales like the t-shirt that cost $1.50 to print on mass, with sale price of 35 AUD and shipping $4, it is much better than and more money effective if you do it this way than scraping the microcents for Itunes or Google Music sales, plus people have a USB key that plays in the car stereo in the reliving reinvention of the cassette tape, and a locked USB out of china at what 1Gb/2Gb would only cost printing 50c - $2 and you can have art, poems, photos, music in MP3, ogg, as well as a wide range of text files and supportive mediums for the shop online with the discount code that prompt buying their t-shirt.
