Are you a University IT Graduate and finding it hard to find placement, have you consider contributing too open source project of sometype too elevate you for more permanent placement in the IT Industry? University every year graduate more IT Graduates than the market can place over supplying by at least 300 – 400% of IT Qualified Graduates either Diplomia or Masters you will find have trouble getting placement having no example profiles or dictionary of profilable work assets.

We have a new Open Source project we are looking for developers, marketting, admin, moderation, testing, graphic design and programming for a federated open microformat project called: VCF5 – We will take your application and through the selection process able you to join what will be a vibrant and powerful change to the .vcf – variant caller file format, which will behave similarly to a open federated social network but at the contact level in phones and devices.

So is there money in it, the project will take some funding and donations from the audience as well; after server costs are paid, we will divey up and spend in each department something for it, if there is cash insentives there will be no intial payment or outlay of financial benefit, open source is something that takes time to build however you will be able to contract yourself and outsource yourself through the enterprise!

If your a development house or suite and your looking at this only make contact if your willing to put one of your developers and/or designers and/or marketeers etc. on the business allocating so many hours if work is needed your business will contribute, we will of course in business employment contract, provision advertising for your business like banner line advertising etc.

All you need really is have working examples and profiles or current university qualifications for IT or Design or The Arts etc, to contribute to this project, what you will also need a github.com + sourceforge.net account to be given as part of the application to the development system operators email where you can send your application, which is devop@vcf.email you can also connect to us on skype the account to connect to is: antony.cipher

You will need the following to make an application to join the VCF5 Open Federated Network – Open Source Project:

- A Current IT Related or Field of Expertise Related Resume
- A Online Demo or Example of Contributions or Projects you have been on
- Sourceforge.net Account
- Github.com Account
- Skype.com Account
- SOHO Environment to Work From
- 100 Points of ID for Signature of Volunteering Employment Contract

Once you have all this please email it to: devop@vcf.email and if you have any queries please connect to the development operator Dr. Simon A. Roberts on skype at the account: antony.cipher

Remember you can forever place yourself against online Job advertisement for PHP or Mobile Phone Application Development or Testing or even Design like templates for websites, but unless you have a working track history or profile then you are going to be undercut in the marketplacement for that employment as without this you have nothing to be inviting and warm for the employer too look at, open source is ideal for contributing and open source this is a new project we will be able to all duty and perform in VCF5 – Federated by you!
